READ THE STORY.

The big children are playing with a ball. Ben wants to play too. The children are laughing at him.
"You are too small. Go and play in the sand/' they say.
Ben is sad. He sits down in the sand. He is watching the children. Now he is digging a little hole in the sand. He is digging and digging. Oh look! Ben is holding something. It's a small bag.
The big children aren't playing with a ball now. They are looking at Ben.
"Open the bag, Ben, open it," they shout. Ben opens the bag. There is some money in it. £20!
"Let's go and buy ice-cream!" shouts Tom.
"I want a hamburger and a drink," says Alan.
"No, no," Ben says, "it's my money. You go and play."
Ben takes the bag to a policeman. The policeman says, "Ben, you are a good boy."
There is an old woman sitting near the policeman. She looks very sad. The policeman gives her the bag.
"Oh, my bag," she shouts, "and my money. You are a good boy." •
She thanks Ben and gives him £2. Ben is very happy. Ben says goodbye to the children.
"You play with the ball," he says. "Im too small to play. I'm going shopping!"
